

DISTANCE LEARNING ACADEMY

DISCLAIMER

Cambridge International Examinations (CIE) through its website at <http://www.cie.org.uk/> offers students around the world access to its curriculum free of charge. Various subject courses can be downloaded providing past papers, examiner reports, specimen papers, syllabus updates and support materials. In conjunction Cambridge University Press provides endorsed text books to prospective students, through their international distribution network.

Students wishing to pursue this avenue are able to write their examinations through the British Council in their respective countries as independent candidates thereby bypassing registered full time “brick and mortar” Cambridge schools, however the ability of home schoolers or distance learners attempting to understand the requirements set down by CIE through the information provided off their website is extremely challenging.

It is for this reason that the Distance Learning Academy” has formulated its work packs, daily planners and assignment requirements based on many years of experience through its compliment of fully trained staff that specializes in the Cambridge Curriculum.

Only full time schools (not distance providers) may be registered with Cambridge International Examinations as a Centre for learning and examinations. DLA is a proud provider of education services to distance learners and home schoolers who do not have access to these facilities due to either geographical or financial reasons.